

Video editing and Podcasting

Digital media is a powerful learning and teaching tool. Have you got video cameras and or microphones in school? Are your staff comfortable with using them?

Both our Podcasting and Video Editing workshops focus on how to start using cameras and recording equipment creatively in the classroom, through story boards and filming, or recording, editing and mixing sounds, and how these skills can be used to support pupils learning in, for example, speaking and listening, science, drama, PE, the Creative Curriculum or to use for teacher assessment.

We will work with the equipment and software you have in school or can advise you about free software you can use.

These films and recordings could then be uploaded into Podcasts or Vodcasts on the internet , your website, your school radio station or into your Learning Platform.
